

The Yemenis Plea
We are the Yemenis.
We don't want enemies.
South Shields is where we want to be.
So we came to be free.
We were invited over in the First World War.
To work on some boats.
We only worked for a few pound notes.

Muhammad Ali came and said.
They should be proud of the lives they lead.
They didn't mean to take jobs from others.
They just wanted to live peacefully with their brother.
We need to love one another.
As we know our sister and brother. By Paige and Olivia

The Yemenis!

It was 2:00 in the morning and as dark as could be, a man was stood clenching his suitcase, and he was very tired. A family walked by shaking there heads in disgust .He had travelled from the anti-slave trade; witch was like a piece of land where you worded for wealthy white men. Being a different colour wasn't so easy; everybody mocked him only because he was a darker colour than other people.

However, he was determined that she could encourage people to change there thought about being racist.

Sunday Sun: 1958

Reporter; Sarah Asher.

South Shields come to terms and solve there colour problem, half caste are now welcome to this city.

By Hannah and Madison.

